

MEMBER CLAIMS DISCLAIMER:

A board of directors is a body of elected or appointed members who jointly oversee the activities of a company or organization. Snoqualmie Valley Women in Business (SVWIB) is a non-profit organization registered in Washington State. The Board of Directors (BOD) is governed by the By-Laws.

All BOD members are volunteers, duly appointed by the existing BOD per the By-Laws. As such, each BOD member is a member of SVWIB in good standing.

Members of SVWIB are responsible for their own businesses. SVWIB BOD, its Committees and paid representatives are not responsible for any claims made by individual members, and do not screen members for membership admittance beyond the scope of the By-Laws.

Each member of SVWIB is responsible for their own listing on the website <https://svwib.com>. BOD members, its Committees and paid representatives are not responsible or liable for any information presented on the website or on SVWIB social media accounts.

Any information shared at the networking meetings by members is not subject to SVWIB BOD evaluation. Each member is responsible for the information they present. SVWIB BOD, its Committees and paid representatives are not responsible or liable for any information presented by members.

Testimonials are made in good faith on the website, social media and in the meetings. Such testimonials are made by members and SVWIB BOD, its Committees and paid representatives are not responsible or liable for any content. Testimonial publication does not infer BOD approval.

As a member site, the BOD, its Committees, and paid representatives are not liable for any member content or claims. If a member makes false claims for their services, the BOD, its Committees and paid representatives are not liable.

Should SVWIB BOD be notified of a complaint against a member that contravenes WA State Laws, the BOD will direct the complainant to notify the appropriate authorities and does not take responsibility or liability for any actions incurred.
